New Haven College

West Haven, Connecticut

Introduction

The Yearbook

Upon graduation in June, our Senior Class will have completed four years of higher education which will remain of the utmost importance throughout our lives. Now the door may be unlocked for future endeavors.

It may be further education or employment. Regardless, we will all be confronted with personal and world problems which will undoubtedly demand solutions.

In order to unlock the door to future success we must never cease striving for knowledge. It is our moral obligation to face the future with a deep concern for mankind and the courage of our convictions.

Graduates . . .

The President's Message

Sincere and warm congratulations are extended to each of you who are about to receive your degrees. These are personal words, of course, but they also come to you in behalf of the Board of Governors and the staff of your college. Most of you have had four years of being on campus and a real part of New Haven College. Some of you have come from other colleges. It has been a pleasure to have all of you with us. It is our most sincere wish that you have found on our campus, in our buildings and among your fellow students and faculty all that you have sought for in achieving a college education.

Ours is primarily a technical college where competence in business and engineering are acquired at the four year level. We view this objective, however, as only one phase of your college career. We hope you have broadened your perspective considerably beyond the technical and material and have sought and achieved a social and cultural awareness to a high degree. There are many who believe that the only college education is one in liberal arts. In the opposite camp are those who feel that technical training in considerable depth is the only way to a profession.

Since we emphasize the latter objective, we naturally mould our curricula to that end. But the liberal education is not ignored because we believe in a combination. Furthermore, four years is only a small fraction of the years ahead. Opportunities for depth in professional training and breadth in a liberal education are ample. This is a charge to each of you that the mere formalization of four years spent in a college is not the end of your education.

A majority of you will not use the Engineering-Science Building, now on the drawing boards, with construction scheduled for next year. Members of the class of 1971 will be the first to use this much needed facility. When it is available, a modest increase in enrollment will be possible. But the primary purpose of this new building will be to provide better facilities for a technical education. The Student Center, which was completed this past year, has served well indeed as a focus for your extra-curricular activities. Next must be the greatly improved technical facilities.

Alumni support in the magnitude that colleges experience today is comparatively new. Even the great universities find that this type of financial aid has materially increased over the past ten years. Our own 1964-65 Annual Alumni Fund exceeded all previous efforts in every category, and we were proud of this achievement.

The support of the alumni means much to every college. It is a barometer by which other donors outside the college family judge the worthiness of a college for additional help. We hope that you, members of the Class of 1966, will be loyal alumni, but we cannot expect your loyalty unless your college merits it. You shall be the judge; we hope the decision will be favorable.

I offer every best wish to each of you as you leave these halls. May you find success in your chosen field of endeavor. May your experience here stand you in good stead. May you contribute in small or large part to the benefit of your community, your country and your fellow man.

Acknowledgements

I want to thank Mr. Arthur Reed for always having his door open to yearbook problems. I appreciate all the help of the Evening Editor, Mr. George Schaefer. Thanks to everyone else involved in the production of this book.

To all those who asked, "How is the yearbook coming?",
"May THEY ALL*HAVE SUCCESS!"
